Becoming a Secondary Education Teacher
The Secondary Teacher Preparation Program at Michigan State University emphasizes the preparation of justice-oriented professionals who are ready to teach on Day 1. You will develop deep content knowledge in the subject(s) you plan to teach in seventh through twelfth grade (7-12), take courses on the most effective teaching practices that support equitable learning for all adolescents, and experience a guided teaching internship in a public school.

Commitment to justice-oriented teaching
We are guided by our belief that education empowers adolescents to make the world a more just place. Our program starts with social justice coursework and that focus on supporting all learners to be critical and creative actors is sustained throughout.

Commitment to rich content
We are guided by research about the critical role of expert subject matter knowledge in quality teaching. Teachers who know the content well have students who learn more. These teachers know how students learn—what they struggle with, what they are likely to misunderstand, what questions they are likely to have. They possess the knowledge and skills for designing instruction to capitalize on the ways learners learn particular content.

Learning by doing
The student teaching internship is the capstone of MSU's Secondary Teacher Preparation Program. You will work with a committed mentor teacher who will be there to guide you every step of the way. We place interns in our partner school districts in the Lansing area, Grand Rapids area, and Southeast Michigan.

URBAN EDUCATORS COHORT PROGRAM (UECP)

What is UECP?
The Urban Educators Cohort Program (UECP) gives students a distinct perspective on teaching in communities where resources and services are often limited. This cohort offers focused coursework, specialized engagement experiences, as well as an urban internship to help prepare members for a career as an equity and justice-focused educator.

Why Join UECP?
Students attending the nation’s urban schools deserve teachers who will remain committed to the job no matter how school budgets and reform efforts fumble. They need teachers who know how to cultivate the resources and potential others may fail to notice for the best chances to succeed.

What Do Urban Educators Do?
Members of the close-knit program spend their freshman and sophomore years together visiting real classrooms and taking specialized courses together. They receive all the benefits of the nation's top-ranked teacher preparation program, with a distinctly urban focus. Urban educators:
- Appreciate sociocultural issues
- Understand structures of power, privilege, & poverty
- Embrace cross-cultural differences
- Create inclusive learning environments
- Connect with families & communities

GLOBAL EDUCATORS COHORT PROGRAM (GECP)

What is GECP?
The Global Educators Cohort Program (GECP) prepares future teachers who are committed to preparing today's children for tomorrow’s world. GECP gives future educators the tools they need to teach with a global view and to make an impact in today's culturally diverse classrooms. Through focused coursework and participation in global experiences and events, MSU’s Global Educators are prepared to help young people think about themselves as citizens and stewards of the world around them.

Why Join GECP?
New teachers can expect to enter classrooms that are increasingly culturally diverse. Students not only need a strong foundation in core academic subjects, but also knowledge, skills, and points of view necessary to interact successfully across cultural groups.

What Do Global Educators Do?
Members of the close-knit program spend two years together visiting real classrooms and taking specialized courses together with international, global, or multicultural perspectives. They receive all the benefits of the nation’s top-ranked teacher preparation program, with a distinctly global focus. Global educators will be specially qualified to bring the world to their students by:
- Teaching abroad
- Teaching in magnet schools
- Teaching in other programs that emphasize international, global, or multicultural perspectives
